BENJAMIN SHREVE, jun. October 14

GENERAL WASHINGTON.

The part in Mr. Monroe's letter in which he speaks of the President (Mr. Washington) is put in soft language. -Mr. Monroe knew what Mr. Washing. ton had faid formerly, and he was wil ling to keep that in view. But the fact is not only that Mr. Washington had given no orders to Mr. Monroe, as the letter stated; but he did not fo much as lay to him, enquire if Mr. Paine be dead or alive, in prison or out, or see if there is any affiftance we can give him.

While these matters were passing the liberations from the prisons were numerous; from twenty to torty in the course of almost every twenty four hours. The continuance of my imprisonment, after a new minister had arrived immediately from America, which was now more than two months, was a matter fo obviously Arange, that I found the character of the American government spoken of in very unqualified terms of teproach; not only by those who were liberated, but by persons who had access to the prison from without. Under these circumstances, I wrote again to Mr. Monroe, and found occasion, among other things to fay: " It will " not add to the popularity of Mr. "Washington to have it believed in A-" merica, as it is believed here, that he " connives at my imprisonment."

The case, so far as it respected Mr. Monroe was, that having to get over the difficulties which the strange conduct of Gouverneur Morris had thrown in the way of a fuccesfor, and having no authority from the American government to speak officially upon any thing relating to me, he found himsel obliged to proceed by unofficial means with individual in correspondence with him; Mr. Wash. members; for though Robespierre was ington ought therefore to expect, especiof the committee of Public Safety fill remained in confiderable force, and had they found out that Mr. Monroe had no official authority upon the cafe, they would have paid little or no regard to his reclamation of me. In the mean time my health was fuffering exceedingly, the dreary prospect of winter was coming on, and imprisonment was still a thing of danger.

After the Robespierrrian members of the Committee were removed by the expiration of their time of ferving, Mr. Monroe reclaimed me, and I was liberated the 4th of November. Mr. Monroe arrived in Paris the beginning of August before. All that period of my imprisonment, at least, I owe not to Robespierre, but to his colleague in projects, George Washington. Immediately upon my liberation Mr. Monroe invited me to his house where I remained more than a year and an half; and I speak of his aid and his friendship, as an open hearted man will always do in | French conful to Philadelphia, and was on fuch a case, with respect and gratitude.

Soon after my liberation the Convention passed an unanimous vote to invite me to return to my feat among them. The times were still unsettled and dangerous, as well from without as from within, for the coalition was unbroken, and the as he had learned that Mr. Letombe had constitution not settled. I chose, however, to accept the invitation; for as I under- was returned by Mr. Letombe under cover take nothing but what I believe to be right, I abandon nothing that I undertake; was not of a cast of mind to be deterred this work. by prospects or retroprospects of danger, so neither were my principles to be weak. ened by misfortune, or perverted by difguit.

world I began to find that I was not the only one who had conceived an unfavora- part of the Age of Reason." When I had ble opinion of Mr. Washington. It was evident that his character was on the decline as well among Americans as among foreigners of different nations. From being the chief of a government, he had made himself the chief of a party; and To GEORGE WASHINGTON, President of his integrity was questioned, for his politics had a doubtful appearance. The mission of Mr. Jay to London, notwith. Randing there was an American minister there already, had then taken place, and was beginning to be talked of. It ap- of Mr. Moorne, I withdrew it, and the peared to others, as it did to me, to be letter is still by me. I was the more easy enveloped in mystery, which every day prevailed upon to do this, as it was then matter of suspicion.

Mr. Washington as President had fent In case I had come, I should have applied ting motive which the despotic faction Gouverneur Morris to London as his fe. to you for such parts of your official letters that imprisoned me in France sthough the I turn some part of this affair into ridicule, agency of Morris it was given out, I agent from Robert Morris to borrow money in Europe, and the report was permitted to pais uncontradicted. The event of Morris's negociation was, that Mr. Hammond was tent minister from England to America, and Pinckney from America to England, and himself minister to France. If while Morris was minister in France he was not an emissary of the British ministry and the coalesced powers, he gave strong reasons to suspect him of it. No one who faw his conduct, and heard his conversation, could doubt his being in their interest: and had he not get off at the time he did, after his recall, he would have been in arrestation. Some letters of his had fallen into the hands of the Committee of Public Safety, and enquiry was making after him.

A great bustle has been made by Mr. Washington about the conduct of Genet in America; while that of his own minister, Morris, in France was infinitely more reproachable. If Genet was imprudent or rash, he was not treacherous; but Morris was all three. He was the enemy of the French revolution in every stage of it. But, notwithstanding this conduct on the part of Moiris, and the known profligacy of his character, Mr. Washington, in a letter he wrote to him at the time of recalling him on the complaint and request of the Committee of Public Safety affores him, that though he had complied with that request, he still retained the same es. teem and friendship for him as before.-This letter Morris was foolish enough to tell of; and as his own character and con. duct were notorious, the telling of it could have but one effect, which was that of implicating the character of the writer. Morris still loiters in Europe, chiefly in England; and Mr. Washington is still overthrown, the Robespierrian members ally fince his conduct in the affair of Jay's off. treaty, that France must consider Morris and Washington as men of the same de. fcription. The chief difference, however, between the two is (for in politics there is none) that the one is profligate enough to profess an indifference about moral > ough to conceal the want of them. About three months after I was at liber. ty, the official note of Jay to Grenville on the subject of the capture of American vessels by British cruifers, appeared in the American papers that arrived at Paris .-Every thing was of a piece. Every thing was mean. The same kind of character went to all circumstances public or private. Disgusted at this national degradation, as well as at the particular conduct of Mr. Washington to me, I wrote to him (Mr. Washington) on the 22d of Feb. 1795. under cover to the then Secretary of State, Mr. Randolph, and entrusted the letter to Mr. Letombe, who was appointed the point of taking his departure. When I supposed Mr. Letombe had sailed, I men tioned the letter to Mr. Monroe, and as I was then in his house, I shewed it to him. He expressed a wish that I would recall it, which he supposed might be done, not then failed. I agreed to do fo, and it to Mr. Monroe.

principles, and the other is prudent en-

The letter, however, will now reach and I was willing also to shew, that, as I Mr. Washington publicly in the course of

About the month of September following, I had a severe relapse, which gave occasion to the report of my death. I had felt it coming on a confiderable time be-Being now once more abroad in the fore, which occasioned me to hasten the work I had then in hand, the "Second finished that work, I bestowed another letter on Mr. Washington, which I fent under cover to Mr. Benjamin Franklin Bache, of Pailadelphia. The letter is as follows:

the United States. Paris, Sept. 20th, 1795.

SIR, I had written you a letter by Mr. Letombe, French conful, but at the request ferved either to encrease or to explain into my intention to have returned to America disapprove, and who had credit enough the capturers. He has appointed this metter of suspicion In the year 1790, or about that time, but the illness I now suffer prevents me. was not wished for. This was the opera. cret agent to have fome communication (and of your private ones, if you had I pretence was, that I was a foreigner) and with the British ministry. To cover the chosen to give them) as contained any instructions or directions either to Mr .. know not by whom, that he went as an Monroe, or to Mr. Morris, or to any other person respecting-me; for, after you were informed of my imprisonment in for me to discover any other. France, it was incumbent on you to have made some enquiry into the cause, as you might well conclude, that I had not the opportunity of informing you of it. I cannot understand your filence upon this fub. ject upon any other ground, than as conntvance at my imprisonment; and this is the manner it is understood here, and will be understood in America, unless you can give me authority for contradicting-it. I therefore write you this letter, to pro pose to you to lend me copies of any letters you have written that may remove that suspicion. In the preface to the second part of the Age of Reason, I have given a memorandum from the hand writing of Robespierre, in which he proposed a decree of accusation against me, " for the interest of America as well as of France." He could have no cause for putting America into the case, but by interpreting the si lence of the American government into connivance and confent. I was imprifoned on the ground of being born in Eng. land; and your filence in not enquiring into the cause of that imprisonment and reclaiming me against it, was tacitly giving me up. I ought not to have suspected you of treachery; but whether I recover from the illness I now suffer, or not, I shall continue to think you treacherous, till you give me cause to think otherwise. I am fure you would have found yourleif more at your ease, had you acted as you ought; for whether your desertion of me was intended to gratify the English government, or let me fall into destruction in France, that you might exclaim the louder against the French revolution, or whether you hoped by my extinction to meet with less opposition in mounting up the American government; either of these will involve you in reproach, you will not eafily shake

to, which I had stopped in complaifance to Mr. Monroe. To GEORGE WASHINGTON, Prefident of the United States. PARIS, Oftober 22d, 1795.

& AS it is always painful to reproach those one would wish to respect, it is not without some difficulty that I have taken the resolution to write to you. The dangers to which I have been exposed cannot have been unknown to you, and the guarded filence you have observed upon that circumstance is what I ought not to have expected from you, either as a friend or prefident of the United States. You know enough of my character to be affured, that I could not have deferved imprisonment in France, and without knowing any thing more than this, you had fosficient ground to have taken some interest for my fafety. Every motive | be wanted a preamble to his demand, he arising from recollection of times past, ought to have fuggested to you the propriety of such a measure. But I cannot find that you have fo much as directed any enquiry to be made, whether I was in prison or at liberty, dead or alive; what the cause of that imprisonment was, or whether there was any fervice or affince you could render. Is this what I ought to have expected from America, after the part I have acted towards her, or will it redound to her honour or to yours, that I tell the story? I do not hesitate to say, that you have not ferved America with more dinnterestedness or greater zeal, or more fidelity than my felf, and I know not if with better effect. After the revolution of America was established, I ventured into new scenes of difficulties to extend the principles which that revolution had produced, & you rested at home to partake of the advantages. In the progress of events, you beheld yourself a President in America, and me prisoner in France. You fold. ed your arms, forget your friends, and became filent.

As every thing I have been doing in Europe was connected with my withes for the prosperity of America, I ought to be more surprised at this conduct on the part of her government. It leaves me but one mode of explanation, which is, that every thing is not as it ought to be amonaft you, and that the presence of a man who might the latter end of the present year, 1795; with the country to be heard and believed.

those that have been filent and inactive to: wards me in America, appear to me to have acted from the same motive, of withing me out of the way. It is impossible Confidering the part I have acted to the revolution of America, it is natural that I feel interelled in whatever relates to her character and prosperity. Though I am not on the spot, to see what is in. mediately afting there, I fee fome part of what she is acting in Europe. For your own fake, as well as for that of America, I was both furprifed and concerned at the appointment of Governeur Morris to be minster to France. His conduct has prov. ed that the opinion I had formed of that appointment was well founded. I wrote that opinion to Mr. Jefferson at the time, and I was frank enough to fay the fane thing to Morris, that it was an uz. fortunate appainment. His prating, infignificant pomposity, rendered him at once offensive, suspected and ridiculous; and his total neglect of all business had fo difgusted the Americans, that they proposed entering a protest against him. He carried this neglect to fuch an extreme, that it was necessary to inform him of ir, and I asked him one day if he did not feel himself ashamed to take the money of the country and do nothing for it .-But Morris is so fond of profit and volup. tuousness, that he cares nothing about character. Had he not been removed at the time he was, I think his conduct would have precipitated the two countries into a rupture; and in this case, hated Systematically, as America is and ever will be by the British government, and susped. ed by France, the commerce of America would have fallen a prey to both com. tries.

If the inconfistent conduct of Morris exposed the interest of America to some hazard in France, the pufillanimous conduct of Mr. Jay in England has rendered the character of the American government contemptible in Europe. Is it possible that any man who had contributed to the independence of America, and to free her from tyranny and injustice of the British government, can read without shame and indignation, the note of Jay to Grenville. It is a fatire upon the declaration of independence, and encouragement to the British government to treat America with contempt. At the time this minister of petitions was afting this miferable part, he had every means in his hands to enable him to have done his business as he ought. The success or failure of his mission depended upon the fuccess or failure of the French arms. Had France failed, Mr. Jay might have put his humble petiti nio his pocket, and gone home. The cale happened to be otherwise, and he has sacrificed the honor and perhaps all the advantages of it, by turning peritioner. I take it for granted, that he was fent to demand indemnification for the captured property; and in this case, if he thought might have faid : " That though the government of England might suppose itself under the necessity of seizing American property bound to France, yet the supposed necessity could not preclude indemnification to the proprietors, who act. ing under the authority of their own government, were not accountable to any other." But Mr. Jay fets out with an implied recognition of the right of the British government to seize and condemn; for he enters his complaint against the irregulativy of the seizesures and the condemnation, as if they were reprehenfible only by not being conformable to the terms of the proclamation under which they were feized. Initead of being the envoy of a government, he goes over like a lawyer to demand a new trial. I can hardly help believing, that Grenville wrote the note himself and Jay signed it, for the thyle of it is domestic, and not diplomatic. The term, His Majesty, used without any descriptive epither, always fignifics the king whom the minister that speaks, represents. If this finking of the demand into a perition was a juggle between Grenville and Jay, to cover the inder nification, I think it will end in another juggle, that of never paying the money, and ; be made use of afterwards to preclude the right of demanding it; for Mr. Jay has virtually disowned the right by appealing to the magnimity of his Majesty against mignan mous Majesty to be umpire in this case, and the government of the United

Among other things, which I confess I do not understand, is the proclamation of neutrality. This has always as peared to me as an asumption on the part of the exrentive, not warranted by the conflitation. But passing this over, as a disputed case, & confidering it only as political, the confequence has been that of fultaining the loffes of war without the balance of reprifals. When the profession of neutrality on the part of America was answered by hostilities on the part of Britain, the obiest and intention of that neutrality existed no longer, and to maintain it after this was not only to encourage further infults and depredations, but was an informal breach of neutrality towards France, by naffively contributing to the aid of her enemy. That the government of England confidered the American government as pufillanimous, is evident from the increafing insolence of the former towards the latter, till the affair of Gen. Wayne. She then faw it might be possible to kick a rovernment into some degree of spirit .-So far as the proclamation of neutrality was intended to prevent a dissolute spirit of privateering in America under foreign colours, it was undoubtedly laudable but to continue it as a government neutrality, after the commerce of the country was made war upon, was februission, and not neutrality. I have heard so much a. bout this thing called neutrality, that I know not if the ungenerous and dishonorable filence (for I must call it such) that has been observed by your part of the goremment towards me during my imprifonment, has not in some measure arisen from that policy.

Though I have written you this letter you ought not to suppose it has been an agreeable undertaking to me. On the contrary, I assure you, it has cost me some disquietude. I am forry you have given me cause to do it; for as I have always remembered your former friendship with pleasure, I suffer a loss by your de. priving me of that fentiment.

An article from Lexington (Ken.) of the 26 h ult fays, " Accounts as late as the 17th September, affure us that the port of New-Orleans was thut up. Whether this order was given by the Spaniards or by the French was a matter of uncertainty. The writer promifes to give the earlieft information on this fubject."

Extract of letter from Jonesborough, (T.

dated 08. 6. " A number of reports are in circulation in this and the adjoining counties, which if true, we think a rupture with the Cherokee Indians not far distant. I is reported and generally believed, that the Indians have politively refused to give up the murderer of young Runner, in consequence of which a number of Mr. Runfer's friends, some say 30, others more, had armed themselves to take satisfaction, and had actually gone into the Indian territory. Another report flates that some of Mr. Runner's friends had armed themselves with an intention to take the Indian offenders by force and bring them to justice, but were stopped by the governor. Another report adds that the Indians had got alarmed, deftroyed their growing crops and fled from the upper towns for shelter in the lower part of the nation, and two white men had been kill. ed in the wilderness between Knoxville."

Extrast of a letter from Lexington, (Ken.) dated OA. 26.

" A short time since, a keel boat with 14 hands coming up from New Orleans, laden with the produce of that country, in passing a bend of the river below, what is called the Little Pratie, the bank gave way, and a tree of confiderable fize tell upon the boat and burst it asunder. It is faid there was to the amount of 30,000 dollars worth on board. What appears very extraordinary is, that not a fingle individual of the boats crew received any injury. They got upon the tree and went with the current until the next day, when they were taken up by a boat also loaded coming up the river, all of which arrived fafe. A fon of Mr. J. Price, near this place, was part owner of the property loft."

SPANISH DEPREDATIONS.

The committee appointed in August last, by those in this town and its vicinity, who have suffered by seizure, detention or depredation of their property, committed by Spaniards, have latery received a letter from the Secretary of State-in which he recommends in the following words, an accurate representation of each case to be prepared in duplicates; one to be fent to Mr. Pinckney, our minister at Madrid; the other to the Office of State, viz .- " To enable him (Mr. Pinckney) to proceed with greater precision and effect, in his discussions and reclamations, it is recommended, that the feveral cases be so discriminated by their circumstances, as to shew how far they rest on general regulations or special licences from competent authorities; how far on licences reasona. bly prefumed to be competent, though in strictness not so; how far on sudden and enfoaring repeals of general regulations or discontinuances of special indulgences how far on the calculation from existing circumstances, that the ordinary colonial policy of Spain would be relaxed; and how far on fraudulent proceedings of Spanish subjects. As in this last case the claimants may be required to shew that satisfaction has been fought in vain from the regular tribunals of the place, it will be prudent for them to be prepared to meet such a preliminary."

This recommendation from the Secretary of State, has a particular reference to cases of seizure and detention, in the Spanish colonies; but as clear and accurate flatements of all cases of reclamation for injuries fustained in those colonies, are necessary, to enable our Micister to obrain inst indemnity therefor, the committee in.

States, who have claims for injuries, of a ny kind done, in the Spanish colonies, to ported. their property, that if they will prepare and forward representations thereof to them, directed to Thomas Burley, in Bof. ton, post paid, they will be attended to, and carefully fent to Mr. Pinckney, and to the Secretary of State. As our minitten, at Madrid, has already been fully instructed by the Secretary of State, to purfue the claims referred to, and may foon enter upon the discussion of preliminary points, it is important that the claimants prepare and fend forward their respective representations with all expedition.

TORIES! TORIES! TORIES!

You cannot look at a page in any democratic print but you fee those trightful words. But what is a tory? Mr. Jeffergovernment." Then our democrats have at 7 o'Clock, P. M. become tories. But the democrats affert that by tories they mean those who did not affift in our revolution. And they declare that those are all federalists. How does it happen then, ye intellectual striplings, that those states where there was, in the time of the revolution, scarcely a tory to be feen, are now mostly federal? And that those states in which tories most abounded are now democratic? In N. England there were but few, very few tories. N: England is decidedly federal. New-York, Virginia, Pennsylvania and Georgia were thronged with tories. They are now democratic. These are indubitable facts, and how do they accord with your inta. mous affertions? Besides, your Mr. Jefferson has raised more tories to office than did both Washington ard Adams. Tench Coxe piloted the British into Philadelphia, he is now Collector of the Revenue in Pennsylvania. George Stephens, was proferibed as a tory in Georgia. He is now an officer. Ludlow and Edgar of New York; Erving of Boston; Wilson of Worcester, and many others, have been appointed fince Jefferson was president, all acknowledged tories. You cannot mention as many tories who held offices under the former administration. Is not Jefferfon then the paron of tories? - And do you, Duane, when in one hand you grasp your 11,000 dollars, and with the other write against tories, remember that while America struggled for freedom, you was a Briton, aiding and affifting her oppreffors ?-And you Holt and Mirchell, ought to blush, when you extract into your vehicles of flander the nonfense of mis Irish renegado.
